Jumpstarting Your Creativity for Writers
Creativity comes naturally to children but, over the years, it’s often quashed by practicality, criticism and, well, life. This five-week class is designed to help students coax their creativity out of hibernation. Whether you’re an experienced writer who is experiencing writer’s block or you can barely remember the last time you wrote anything beyond a grocery list, you’re sure to learn new techniques in this class. Students will be led through dozens of fun writing exercises aimed at developing plot, character, dialogue, setting and more. Each week students will have the option of choosing one piece for instructor feedback. This course is perfect for anyone who wants to give their writing a kick in the pants. The instructor, Mary Boone, has written 34 nonfiction books and has published articles for newspapers and national magazines including People, Entertainment Weekly and Runners World. She has taught writing courses at the high school and college level for more than a decade. Supplies: Notebook/pens/pencils or personal laptop.

Memoir Writing: Telling Your Story
Every life is interesting in its own way. That’s why memoir writing — everyday people telling their stories — has become such a popular phenomenon. Through this class, participants will learn to identify moments and aspects of their lives that are story worthy. We’ll also focus on storytelling techniques that lure readers in. Whether you seek to write essay-length pieces or a book, this class will help you tell your life’s stories. The instructor, Mary Boone, has written 34 nonfiction books and has published articles for newspapers and national magazines including People, Entertainment Weekly and Runners World. She has taught writing courses at the high school and college level for more than a decade. Supplies: Notebook/pens/pencils or personal laptop.

Introduction to Digital Photography
This beginning class will interest those of who have either a DSLR digital camera or Mirrorless digital camera (no point and shoot cameras; if unsure contact the Instructor via ‘Continuing Education’).
The goal of this class is to make people more comfortable operating their camera and understanding what shutter speeds, apertures, iso, and white balance are all about. As well, we’ll explore your camera’s full potential and get people off of automatic. Additional emphasis will be on exposure, metering, lenses, and filters. The next day field trip (Sunday) to the Bellevue Botanical Garden will allow students to receive hands-on help in the field. Instructor

Robert Stahl is an award-winning photographer whose work has appeared in National Geographic Publications. Bring your camera to class the first day.
